Ignazio Paolo Marzano, Ph.D., P.E.

Dr. Marzano (BSc., MSc., Ph.D. at Sapienza University of Rome and P.E. registration in Italy) former Assistant Professor of Geotechnics at Civil and Environmental Engineering Department of Sapienza University of Rome, currently senior specialist consultant in the field of deep foundations and ground improvement for engineering firms, contractors, and clients. Lately involved in designing of important maritime construction and port development projects in the Mediterranean Sea.

He has authored or co-authored 2 books and more than 70 papers in referred journals, conference proceedings and technical research reports. Current research activities are focused on field and laboratory testing methods for Deep Mixing towards the proposal of international standards on design, execution and execution control. Currently he is member of DFI Europe board, an active member of the DFI Soil Mixing and Information Management Systems committee and the international collaborative study on Deep Mixing Method. He co-founded Soilmixing Ltd, an innovative Start-up of Sapienza University.